Introduction

This document is an edited version of a similar document the IRS is distributing to its employees. The IRS is providing it to practitioners as an aid to understanding the transition of its service center campuses. The alignment of service center campuses to match customer service segments was completed in January, 2002. Each service center campus was assigned to either the Small Business/Self-Employed (SB/SE) or Wage and Investment (W&I) business operating division (BOD). Additionally, several campus programs were realigned as part of a major initiative to improve customer service. Four methods of realignment were identified and are referred to as mapping.

Basic Back-End: These programs are aligned based on BOD (i.e. five W&I and five SB/SE)
Consolidated: These programs are worked in less than ten campuses
Specialized: These programs are worked in campuses where the returns are filed
Centralized: These programs are worked in one campus

Some of the anticipated benefits of this realignment are to:

- Balance the workload among campuses
- Reduce staffing gaps
- Improve program oversight
- Promote training effectiveness
- Improve efficiency
- Build expertise within programs

IRS tax databases used for processing tax returns and managing taxpayer accounts are called Master Files (Individual – IMF, and Business – BMF). Master Files are organized by types of tax and are assigned to the operating divisions as illustrated below.

		Wage & Investment	Small Business/Self-Employed
Master File	IMF	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• 1040 EZ• 1040 A• 1040 without Schedule C, E, F, and 2106	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• 1040 with Schedules C, E, F, and 2106
	BMF	N/A	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• 941• 1065• 1120• 706/709

Organizational Structure

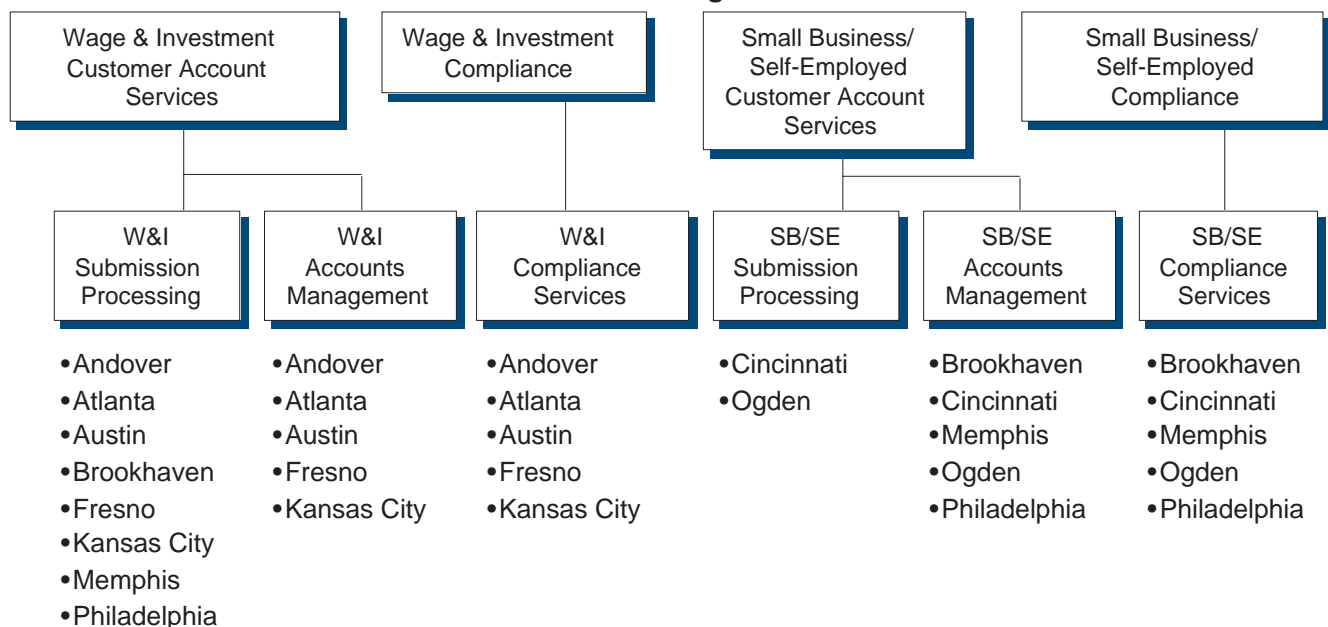

January 2002

Campuses will specialize based on Master File in Submission Processing and by customer segment in Accounts Management and Compliance Services. Due to the receipt of fewer electronic returns than projected, the two Business Master File (BMF) front-end submission processing sites will continue to process Individual Master File (IMF) returns in 2002. IMF returns processing will continue to be re-evaluated annually.

Using the transition design, service center campuses are aligned as follows in 2002.

2002 Site Alignment

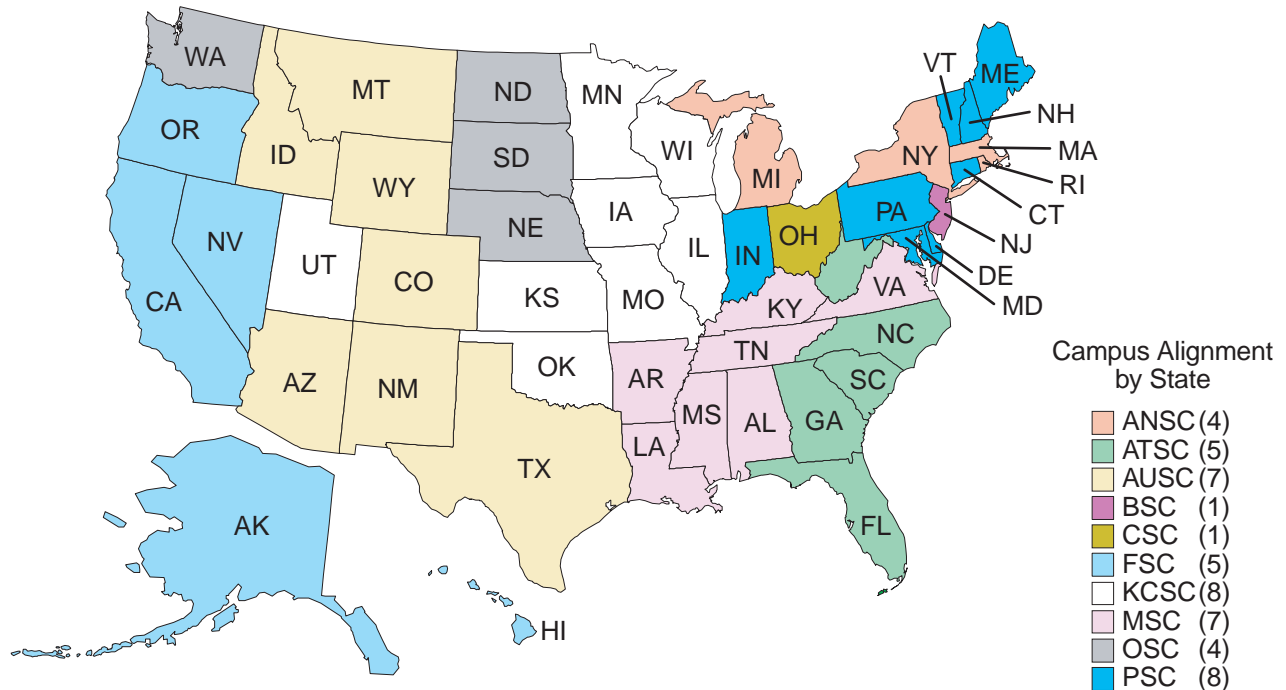

Maps and charts depicting the transition of IRS service center campuses in greater detail are provided in the pages that follow.
